

Wines & Vines

March issue

Suppliers section

Nomacorc invests in research

Nomacorc, Zebulon, N.C.-based producer of synthetic wine stoppers, has launched an in-depth, three year project with the department of enology science at the Institut National de la Recherche Agronomique (INRA), Montpellier, France. The study will collect technical data to demonstrate the effect of oxygen transfer through closures on the evolution of wine after bottling.